Abstracts

The market for animal-free dairy products encompasses food and beverage items that replicate the sensory, functional, and nutritional properties of conventional dairy?such as milk, cheese, yogurt, butter, and ice cream?without the use of animals. These products are produced through precision fermentation, cellular agriculture, or plant-based formulation techniques that recreate dairy proteins (like casein and whey), fats, and other components. The category is distinct from traditional plant-based alternatives (e.g., almond or oat milk) due to its focus on biomimicry, aiming to deliver an identical or near-identical experience to animal-derived dairy while addressing concerns related to sustainability, animal welfare, lactose intolerance, and dietary preferences.

The global Animal Free Dairy Product market size was estimated at USD 458.5 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 12.40% during the forecast period.
