Abstracts

Anti slip pallet sheets are specialized packaging materials designed to prevent loads from shifting during transportation and storage by creating friction between stacked items, typically consisting of a base layer of paper or plastic with an applied friction-enhancing coating such as silicone, rubber, or specialized polymers that increase the coefficient of friction between stacked surfaces. These sheets are placed between layers of goods on pallets to stabilize the load, reduce product damage, minimize the need for excessive strapping or wrapping, and enhance workplace safety by preventing accidents caused by unstable stacks. They are used across various industries including food and beverage, pharmaceuticals, manufacturing, and logistics, where secure load integrity is critical for both operational efficiency and regulatory compliance, and they come in multiple sizes, materials, and friction levels to accommodate different weight capacities, environmental conditions, and specific application requirements.

The global Anti Slip Pallet Sheets market size was estimated at USD 120.5 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.85% during the forecast period.
