Report Overview

The name 'Ayurveda' means 'from the center of the Indian subcontinent' and refers to an ancient Indian medical system. It is an alternative medical technique that uses spices, natural herbs and botanical medicines. In India, Ayurveda is a part of traditional medicine and is practiced by about 80% of the population. Around the world, these treatments are used to promote overall health. The primary goal of Ayurvedic medicine is to help people live a long and healthy life without the need for drugs, complicated surgeries, or other uncomfortable distractions. Since Sri Lanka, Nepal and Myanmar are all countries with traditional medicine, their traditional medicine systems are comparable to those of China and Europe. Ayurvedic ingredients are widely used in cosmetics, nutraceuticals, oral care products, personal care products and medicines.
