Report Overview

The B2B2C insurance market refers to a business model where insurance providers partner with non-insurance companies (such as e-commerce platforms, fintech firms, or telecom operators) to offer insurance products directly to the end consumer through these third-party platforms. This model leverages the partner's existing customer base, distribution channels, and brand trust to provide embedded insurance solutions seamlessly integrated into the customer journey. Unlike traditional B2C insurance, which relies on direct sales or agents, B2B2C insurance capitalizes on digital ecosystems, enabling insurers to reach a wider audience with lower acquisition costs. Products often include micro-insurance, travel protection, device coverage, or parametric policies tailored to the partner's industry. The model thrives on data-sharing partnerships, API-driven integrations, and personalized, on-demand offerings, making it a key growth area in insurtech and digital insurance transformation.

The global B2B2C Insurance market size was estimated at USD 3003.3 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.50% during the forecast period.
