Abstracts

The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Barium Sulfate Powder competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. In 2024, global production of Barium sulfate powder reached approximately 4,800 kilotons, with an average global market price of around USD 320 per ton. Barium sulfate powder is a fine, white, odorless crystalline substance composed of barium and sulfate ions (BaSO_4), known for its high density, chemical inertness, and excellent opacity. Naturally occurring as the mineral barite, it is widely used as a weighting agent in drilling fluids for oil and gas exploration, as a filler and pigment in paints, plastics, and rubber, and in specialized applications such as X-ray contrast agents in the medical field due to its radiopacity and non-toxicity when ingested. Its stability, insolubility in water, and resistance to acids (except concentrated sulfuric acid) make it highly valuable across industrial, medical, and chemical sectors.

The global Barium Sulfate Powder market size was estimated at USD 1538.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.60% during the forecast period.
