Abstracts

BCF stands for Bulk Continuous Filament, and it refers to a type of manufacturing process for carpet yarn. BCF Carpet Nylon Yarn is specifically made from nylon fibers that are extruded in a continuous strand, without any breaks or joints. This results in a stronger and more durable yarn compared to staple fibers, which are shorter in length and need to be spun together. Nylon is a popular choice for carpet yarn due to its excellent wear resistance, resilience, and stain resistance. BCF Carpet Nylon Yarn is known for its softness, ability to bounce back after being compressed, and resistance to crushing and matting. This article only counts BCF nylon carpet yarn. From a global perspective, most carpets produced in Europe and North America use nylon, of which European nylon carpets account for more than 80%. Nylon carpet yarns include nylon 6 yarn and nylon 66 yarn, of which nylon 6 yarn accounts for more than 70% of the market share, and there are obvious differences in the application scenarios of different product types. For example, nylon 6 yarn is cheaper than nylon 66 and is mainly used for household carpets; nylon 66 yarn is more expensive, and its biggest advantage is flame retardancy. It has obvious advantages in fire protection, and its application scenarios are mostly commercial places such as automobiles and hotels. BCF nylon carpet yarn global core companies are mainly distributed in the United States and Europe, among which Italy's Aquafil Group's ECONYL nylon carpet yarn has the largest market share.

The global BCF Carpet Nylon Yarn market size was estimated at USD 1037.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.50% during the forecast period.
