Abstracts

The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on BJD Wigs competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. BJD wigs are wigs designed for ball-jointed doll heads, usually made of synthetic fibers or real human hair. They are tailored to the circumference and proportions of the BJD doll's head to ensure a perfect fit. BJD wigs are not only used to beautify the doll's appearance, but also help express the doll's character setting, style and personality. BJD wigs are an important part of BJD styling and personalization. Driving factors: Social media (Instagram, Weibo, TikTok) promotes the spread of BJD culture and drives the demand for peripheral products such as wigs. Personalized demand, collectors pursue unique styles, driving the growth of the customized wig market. New fibers (high-temperature silk, high-temperature resistant materials) and 3D printing technology improve the texture and plasticity of wigs. Platforms such as Etsy, Taobao, and Shopify lower the sales threshold, making it easier for niche brands to reach target customers. Challenges: High raw material costs, price fluctuations of high-quality synthetic fibers or real human hair affect profits. Fierce competition, a large number of cheap imitations in the low-end market, squeezing the profit margins of regular merchants. High international transportation costs, long delivery cycles for customized products, affecting user experience. Copyright issues, pirated designs, and imitations of popular styles may lead to legal disputes, and original brands need to strengthen intellectual property protection.

The global BJD Wigs market size was estimated at USD 64.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 12.60% during the forecast period.
