Report Overview

Brand licensing means leasing or renting an intangible asset. It is a process of managing and creating contracts between the owner of a brand and an individual or company. Further, brand owners use brand licensing to extend a character or trademark onto products of a completely different nature. This license gives permission to a company to produce or market, or service from the original owner. It helps to produce, distribute the service or product, promote, and exchange the licensor will get royalties from the sale. It can also be used to differentiate products from the competition and to extend a brand.

The brand licensing market is driven by the rising need for brand awareness and increasing need for approved items. The demand for the legal system is expected to rise due to growing need for digitalization. Further, the expanding source of revenue for licensed companies is projected to propel growth of the market. In addition, growing brand awareness among consumers and the ability to enter the latest needs and distribution channels are projected to drive market growth during the forecast period.
