Report Overview

Cage netting mat refers to a specialized type of mesh or netting material designed for enclosing or covering cages, often used in agricultural, horticultural, or pet applications to provide protection, ventilation, and containment. These mats are typically constructed from durable materials like polyethylene, nylon, or metal wires, offering resistance to weather, pests, and wear while allowing airflow and visibility. They are commonly employed in poultry farming, aviaries, garden enclosures, and small animal habitats to prevent escapes, deter predators, and maintain hygienic conditions. The product may vary in mesh size, strength, and UV resistance depending on the intended use, with some versions featuring reinforced edges or anti-corrosion coatings for extended durability.
