Abstracts

The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Chrome Gut Suture competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. In 2024, global sales of chromium gut sutures reached approximately 72 million units, with an average selling price of US$6.1 per unit. Chrome gut sutures are natural collagen fibers extracted from the intestinal mucosa of healthy ruminants through a special process. After treatment with chromium salts, their resistance to enzymatic degradation is significantly enhanced, and they exhibit a moderate absorption rate and good tissue compatibility. The sutures are gradually absorbed and degraded in tissues, typically maintaining tension for 10 to 15 days, and complete absorption takes approximately 70 to 90 days. They are widely used for suturing soft tissues in human and veterinary surgery, and are particularly suitable for suturing mucosa, muscle, and connective tissue.

The global Chrome Gut Suture market size was estimated at USD 440.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.50% during the forecast period.
