Abstracts

Coordinate Measuring Machine (CMM) and Enterprise Asset Management (EAM) solutions represent two distinct yet increasingly integrated segments within the industrial software and hardware landscape. CMMs are precision metrology systems, including both hardware (e.g., bridge, gantry, or portable articulated arms) and software, used to capture and analyze the physical geometrical characteristics of objects, ensuring manufacturing quality control, reverse engineering, and dimensional verification. EAM solutions are software platforms focused on managing the entire lifecycle of physical assets—from procurement and installation to maintenance, operation, and disposal—optimizing asset utilization, reducing downtime through predictive and preventive maintenance, managing work orders, and controlling operational costs. While CMMs are primarily deployed in manufacturing, aerospace, automotive, and medical device sectors for quality assurance, EAM systems have broader applicability across industries with significant physical infrastructure, such as energy, utilities, transportation, and heavy manufacturing. The growing trend toward smart manufacturing and Industry 4.0 is driving convergence between these domains, as data from CMMs feeds into EAM systems to trigger maintenance actions based on quality deviations or wear patterns, enabling a closed-loop quality-to-maintenance workflow that enhances overall operational efficiency.

The global Cmms And Eam Solutions market size was estimated at USD 4300.0 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.50% during the forecast period.
