Abstracts

Residential appraisal services are crucial in determining the fair market value of residential properties, including single-family homes, condominiums, and townhouses. These services are typically required during real estate transactions, refinancing, mortgage lending, and for tax purposes. Just like in residential real estate, a commercial real estate appraisal is an unbiased opinion of the value of the property. However, rather than looking at the value of single-family residences or individual condo units, a commercial real estate appraisal is used to determine the value of properties like multifamily housing units, office buildings, or retail spaces. At their core, appraisals are used to determine what a property will sell for in the current market, but they are also important in underwriting. Lenders generally will not lend more than an asset is worth, so an appraisal helps these lenders determine how much financing they can safely provide.

The global Commercial Real Estate Appraisal Services market size was estimated at USD 831.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.20% during the forecast period.
