Abstracts

Corrugated cardboard pallets are a type of material handling and shipping platform, constructed from layers of fluted corrugated fiberboard, often laminated or reinforced with additional materials such as plastic or wooden components to enhance structural integrity and load-bearing capacity. These pallets are engineered to provide a lightweight, cost-effective, and sustainable alternative to traditional wooden or plastic pallets, designed for single-use or limited reuse applications in supply chains where weight reduction, recyclability, and compliance with international phytosanitary standards (such as ISPM 15) are prioritized. They are commonly used in industries like food and beverage, pharmaceuticals, electronics, and retail, where hygiene, ease of disposal, and environmental considerations play a significant role in logistics and transportation decisions.

The global Corrugated Cardboard Pallet market size was estimated at USD 12345.67 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.30% during the forecast period.
