Abstracts

Dental scanning equipment refers to digital devices used to capture precise three-dimensional images of oral structures, including teeth, gums, and jawbones, for applications in restorative, orthodontic, and implant dentistry. These systems, which include intraoral scanners, desktop laboratory scanners, and cone-beam computed tomography (CBCT) systems, replace traditional physical impressions by creating high-accuracy digital models that streamline workflows in dental practices and laboratories. The technology integrates with computer-aided design and manufacturing (CAD/CAM) systems to enable the efficient production of crowns, bridges, aligners, dentures, and surgical guides, improving diagnostic capabilities, patient experience, and clinical outcomes through enhanced visualization and data integration.

The global Dental Scanning Equipment market size was estimated at USD 1256.8 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.75% during the forecast period.
