Abstracts

Free Trade Account (FT account for short) is a bank account system that integrates local and foreign currencies and allows free conversion within the account. It was first established in the Shanghai Free Trade Zone in 2014. Afterwards, free trade zones in Hainan, Guangdong, Tianjin, and most of the newly established free trade zones in China have also launched this account system. FT account is a set of local and foreign currency accounts with unified rules opened by financial institutions such as banks in the free trade pilot zone's sub - accounting unit according to customer needs. It is independent of the existing traditional account system and belongs to the central bank's special - purpose account system. It is an important institutional arrangement by the People's Bank of China to explore the convertibility of the capital account, expand financial opening - up, and prevent financial risks.

The global Free Trade Account market size was estimated at USD 1327565.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 80.90% during the forecast period.

This report offers a comprehensive and in-depth analysis of the global Free Trade Account market, covering all critical facets from a broad macroeconomic overview to detailed micro-level insights. It examines market size, competitive landscape, emerging development trends, niche segments, key drivers and challenges, as well as conducts SWOT and value chain analyses.

The insights provided enable readers to understand the competitive dynamics within the industry and formulate effective strategies to enhance profitability and market positioning. Additionally, the report presents a clear framework for evaluating the current status and future outlook of business organizations operating in this sector.
