The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Fully Automatic Wet Wipes Machine competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. In 2024, the global production of Fully Automatic Wet Wipes Machines reached 5,580 units, with an average selling price of US$205,000 per unit and a gross profit margin of 49.92%-50.3%. Direct materials accounted for 23.47% of the total. Companies typically produce 50-290 units annually. Downstream customers include King Hong Ye, Hengan Group, Zhongshun Roujie, Vinda Group, Lee & Man Paper, MURO (Spain), and ALLIED WEST PAPER (USA). The Fully Automatic Wet Wipes Machine integrates multiple processes such as raw material preparation, wetting, cutting, folding, and packaging to ultimately produce wet wipes. Its automated operation ensures stable and reliable product quality and achieves high productivity. The machine is equipped with a raw material preparation system, which typically includes nonwoven fabric, moisturizing liquid, and other additives. These materials are carefully selected to ensure their softness, strength, and skin-friendliness. The wetting system is responsible for evenly applying the moisturizing liquid to the nonwoven fabric, ensuring that each wet tissue contains the appropriate amount of moisture, thus providing optimal comfort and cleaning effect. The cutting and folding unit precisely cuts wet tissues to the required size and folds them into easy-to-use shapes or patterns. This step ensures the uniformity of the paper, making it convenient for consumers. After the wet wipes are cut and folded, the machine's packaging system automatically seals single or multiple wipes into suitable packaging forms, such as pillow packs or resealable containers, to maintain their freshness and hygiene.

The global Fully Automatic Wet Wipes Machine market size was estimated at USD
