The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Gel-Infused Memory Foam Mattress competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. In 2024, the global production of gel memory foam mattresses was approximately 20-30 million units, with an average selling price of approximately $300-$600 per unit and a gross profit margin of approximately 45%. Single-line production capacity was approximately 50,000-150,000 units per year. Gel memory foam mattresses were designed to address the core pain point of traditional memory foam mattresses, which cause stuffiness and discomfort during sleep due to the material's high heat retention. It is a high-end mattress in which micro-gel particles or capsules are injected into the comfort layer of the memory foam. This mattress actively absorbs and disperses excess heat generated during sleep through the gel components, and its special structure also promotes micro-air circulation within the material, creating a cooler and more breathable sleep microclimate than traditional memory foam mattresses. The upstream supply chain for gel memory foam mattresses consists of chemical companies responsible for providing basic raw materials such as polyurethane, gel polymers, and foaming agents; the midstream consists of professional foam manufacturers and mattress factories that use precision processes to inject the gel into the memory foam matrix and foam it, then cut, laminate, and encapsulate it to create a complete mattress; the downstream reaches consumers through brand owners, online e-commerce platforms, and physical stores. The demand stems from the global market's pursuit of improved sleep health and comfort. The core driving forces include: addressing the common pain point of traditional memory foam mattresses being stuffy in summer, meeting consumers' rigid demand for a cooler and more breathable sleep environment, and responding to the market trend in the home furnishing industry to enhance product added value and differentiated competitiveness through material innovation.

The global Gel-Infused Memory Foam Mattress market size was estimated at USD 9000.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.50% during the forecast period.
