A Guest Room Management System (GRMS) is a software application that helps hotels manage their guest rooms more efficiently. It provides a central platform for controlling and monitoring room devices, such as lights, thermostats, door locks, and curtains. This can help to improve guest comfort, reduce energy consumption, and streamline hotel operations. Guest room management systems are evolving towards becoming more integrated, intelligent, and user-friendly. These systems not only support traditional functions like reservations and check-in/check-out management, but also integrate mobile device operations, Internet of Things (IoT) technology, and artificial intelligence (AI) and machine learning algorithms to optimize the guest experience and improve operational efficiency. With the rise of cloud computing and serverless architectures, PMSs are becoming more flexible and scalable, supporting cross-platform data sharing and service automation. Future trends include further deepening personalized service customization, enhancing voice control and natural language understanding capabilities, increasing the application of sustainability and environmental protection measures, and using data analysis to help hotels make more informed business decisions, thereby maintaining their advantage in a fiercely competitive market.
