Abstracts

Hot rolled stainless steel refers to stainless steel that has been processed through a high-temperature rolling mill (typically above the recrystallization temperature) to achieve desired thickness, width, and surface characteristics, resulting in a scaled, non-reflective finish with improved mechanical properties such as higher tensile strength and hardness compared to cold-rolled alternatives; this product form is widely used in structural applications, heavy machinery, construction, industrial equipment, and automotive components where precise surface finish is less critical than durability and cost-efficiency.

The global Hot Rolled Stainless Steel market size was estimated at USD 38500.0 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.50% during the forecast period.
