Abstracts

In-Feed Native Advertising refers to paid advertising content that is integrated directly into the content feed of a platform—such as news sites, social media, or e-commerce apps—in a way that matches the visual style, function, and user experience of organic content. Unlike banner or pop-up ads, in-feed native ads appear within the natural content stream and are often marked with subtle labels like "sponsored" or "promoted." These ads may take the form of articles, videos, product listings, or social media posts, and are designed to be non-disruptive, contextually relevant, and more engaging to users.

The global In-Feed Native Advertising market size was estimated at USD 45528.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 14.10% during the forecast period.

This report offers a comprehensive and in-depth analysis of the global In-Feed Native Advertising market, covering all critical facets from a broad macroeconomic overview to detailed micro-level insights. It examines market size, competitive landscape, emerging development trends, niche segments, key drivers and challenges, as well as conducts SWOT and value chain analyses.

The insights provided enable readers to understand the competitive dynamics within the industry and formulate effective strategies to enhance profitability and market positioning. Additionally, the report presents a clear framework for evaluating the current status and future outlook of business organizations operating in this sector.

A significant focus of this report lies in the competitive landscape of the global In-Feed Native Advertising market. It offers detailed profiles of major players, including their
