Abstracts

Jewelry and watch rental is an emerging luxury consumption model that allows customers to temporarily use and wear high-end jewelry, brand-name watches, and other valuable items for a specific rental period by paying a rental fee far below the retail price, rather than owning them. This service is typically provided by professional rental platforms or brands, and its core value lies in meeting users' immediate and diverse needs for luxury goods in scenarios such as attending important occasions, experiencing different lifestyles, or short-term styling, while avoiding the enormous financial burden of full purchase. To ensure smooth service, the platform is responsible for the appraisal, maintenance, insurance, and professional cleaning of the items, and has a clear rental agreement that details the rental period, rental fee, damage compensation, and renewal or buyout terms. This model is essentially a "use rather than own" sharing economy, which not only lowers the barrier to experiencing luxury goods but also promotes the recycling of valuable items, representing a more flexible and sustainable modern consumption concept.

The global Jewelry and Watch Rental market size was estimated at USD 1125.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 3.50% during the forecast period.
