Abstracts

Kids Magazines for Ages 6 to 12 are periodical publications designed specifically for children within this age range. They typically feature a mix of educational content, stories, activities, puzzles, and interactive elements tailored to engage young readers. These magazines may focus on topics such as science, history, current events, sports, literature, art, and more, fostering curiosity and learning in an age-appropriate and entertaining format. As parents pay more and more attention to their children's education, the market demand for children's magazines, as an important channel for children to acquire knowledge and cultivate reading interests, continues to grow. The content of children's periodicals has expanded from focusing on the political thoughts of children to focusing on their moral sentiments, knowledge accumulation, emotional life and other fields. It has experienced a development process from being mainly comprehensive periodicals to coexisting with special periodicals, and continuously meets the reading needs of children. The rise of mobile Internet marketing tools, such as content e-commerce, community e-commerce, and social distribution, has provided new channels for the promotion and sales of children's magazines. These marketing tools not only expand the audience range of children's magazines, but also increase their brand awareness and market influence. Technology and data play an increasingly important role in the publication and marketing of children's magazines. Through data analysis, publishers can understand readers' needs and preferences more accurately, thereby adjusting publishing content and marketing strategies. Children's magazines will pay more attention to the diversity and personalization of content to meet the needs of children of different ages and interests. For example, for younger children, more magazines that are entertaining and educational with pictures and texts can be launched; for older students, more in-depth content covering areas such as science, history, and culture can be provided.

The global Kids Magazines for Ages 6 to 12 market size was estimated at USD 2465.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 3.70% during the forecast period.
