Abstracts

The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Lemon Comminute competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. Lemon Comminute is a semi-solid mixture produced by mechanically crushing whole lemons (peel, pulp, and partial seeds), preserving the complete flavor profile and nutrients. Unlike pure juice, it contains abundant peel oils (e.g., limonene) and pulp fiber, delivering intense citrus aroma with a bittersweet note. Widely used in beverages (juice drinks, teas), baking (cake fillings), and condiments (sauces, marinades), it enhances natural lemon flavor and color. Pasteurized or frozen for preservation, its particle size (coarse/fine) can be customized, while vitamin C and flavonoids offer antioxidant benefits. As an industrial ingredient, it supports eco-friendly "whole fruit utilization" by minimizing waste and cost.

The global Lemon Comminute market size was estimated at USD 627.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.30% during the forecast period.
