Abstracts

An managed security service provider (MSSP) provides outsourced monitoring and management of security devices and systems. The Managed Security Services Providers (MSSPs) market has emerged as a critical and rapidly expanding segment within the broader cybersecurity landscape. It offers organizations a strategic approach to addressing the growing complexity and sophistication of cyber threats. MSSPs provide a range of services that encompass threat detection, prevention, incident response, compliance management, and security monitoring, all delivered as a subscription-based model. As cybersecurity threats continue to evolve and escalate, many organizations, from small businesses to large enterprises, are turning to MSSPs to outsource their security needs to experts who can provide round-the-clock monitoring and management. The MSSP market is driven by the need for advanced threat detection, incident response, and compliance support, particularly as regulatory requirements become more stringent. Additionally, the adoption of cloud-based services, the Internet of Things (IoT), and remote work arrangements has expanded the attack surface for cyber threats, making the services of MSSPs increasingly invaluable. With a growing emphasis on proactive and predictive security measures, the MSSPs market is poised for continued growth and innovation as it plays a pivotal role in safeguarding digital assets and protecting organizations from the ever-evolving cyber threat landscape.

The global Managed Security Services Providers (MSSPs) market size was estimated at USD 261640.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.50% during the forecast period.

This report offers a comprehensive and in-depth analysis of the global Managed Security Services Providers (MSSPs) market, covering all critical facets from a broad
