Abstracts

The market for manga and anime licensing involves the legal acquisition of intellectual property rights by companies or organizations to distribute, adapt, merchandise, or otherwise commercially exploit Japanese-originated comics (manga) and animated content (anime) in regions outside of Japan. This includes securing rights for various media formats such as television broadcast, streaming, physical home video releases, print publishing, digital distribution, and derivative works like video games, live-action adaptations, and consumer products. The licensing process is typically negotiated between Japanese rights holders?such as publishers, animation studios, and production committees?and international distributors, platforms, or publishers, with terms covering geographical territories, duration, exclusivity, revenue-sharing models, and approved usage. The market has evolved significantly with the globalization of anime and manga fandom, driven by digital streaming platforms, increased consumer demand, and the growing mainstream recognition of these cultural exports, making licensing a critical mechanism for monetizing content globally while managing intellectual property integrity and brand expansion.

The global Manga And Anime Licensing market size was estimated at USD 2045.8 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.50% during the forecast period.

This report offers a comprehensive and in-depth analysis of the global Manga And Anime Licensing market, covering all critical facets from a broad macroeconomic overview to detailed micro-level insights. It examines market size, competitive landscape, emerging development trends, niche segments, key drivers and challenges, as well as conducts SWOT and value chain analyses.

The insights provided enable readers to understand the competitive dynamics within the industry and formulate effective strategies to enhance profitability and market positioning. Additionally, the report presents a clear framework for evaluating the current status and future outlook of business organizations operating in this sector.
