Abstracts

Short dramas, also known as "micro-dramas" or "mini-theaters," refer to a new type of film and television format where each episode is shorter than a traditional TV series, has lower production costs, is primarily distributed via vertical screen on mobile phones, and involves online influencers in production. Micro-dramas are defined as episodes less than 10 minutes long, becoming the fourth officially recognized form of online film and television work after web dramas, web movies, and web animations. The vertical screen short drama industry chain is a complete ecosystem centered on content production, encompassing technical support, platform distribution, user consumption, and derivative services. Its links are closely interconnected, forming a closed loop from creation to monetization. Vertical Screen Short Drama Industry Chain Analysis: The upstream mainly consists of IP copyright holders. IP copyright holders provide their own IP resources to short drama producers, who then adapt them into short drama scripts. Currently, short drama IP sources include novels, comics, and games. Due to the compact plot characteristics of short dramas, they highly align with online "fast-paced" novels. Among the types of short drama IP copyright holders, online literature institutions account for nearly half due to their content reserves. The midstream mainly consists of short drama production companies, which are primarily responsible for connecting with upstream resources, rewriting scripts, filming, and post-production, transforming content into online micro-dramas. These short drama production companies are mainly transformed from information flow companies, traditional film and television companies, and MCN companies, as well as some IP copyright companies. Companies include: Mango TV, Huace Film & Television, Linmon Media, Jiaxing Jiuzhou Cultural Media Co., Ltd., and Dianzhong Technology Co., Ltd. Currently, the cost of producing a vertical-screen short drama is approximately $120,000-$150,000 per episode, but the midstream portion only accounts for 10%-15% of the overall industry chain revenue. The downstream mainly consists of content distributors and streaming providers, primarily responsible for video distribution, traffic generation, and monetization. These include ReelShort, DramaBox, TopShort, FlexTV (Mega Matrix), GoodShort, and ShortTV. Currently, mainstream content distribution platforms include short video platforms, short video mini-programs, long video platforms, and independent short drama apps. Short video platforms are the primary reach, using story clips to attract users and form a closed-loop content consumption cycle. These platforms inherently possess advantages in developing micro-dramas, with a relatively higher degree of alignment with micro-drama content, making them crucial channels for user acquisition and viewing. They also account for the largest share of revenue in the entire industry chain, approximately 80%-85%. Micro-Dramas Playback Platform refer to all platforms used for distributing short dramas; they belong to the downstream industry and boast a gross profit margin as high as 60%. Short dramas, also known as "micro short dramas" and "small theaters", refer to a new type of film and television format with a shorter episode length than traditional TV dramas, lower production costs, mainly disseminated through small mobile screens, and produced by Internet celebrities. At present, the daily recharge consumption of paid micro short dramas on all domestic platforms is already around 60 million yuan. According to the "2023 China Internet Audiovisual Development Research Report", in the past six months, 50.4% of the more than 1 billion short video users in my country have watched micro short dramas, micro variety shows, and instant noodles within 3 minutes. Fast-paced, high-density, and exaggerated plots are the biggest characteristics of micro short dramas, and they are also their magic weapon for attracting money. Tianyancha data shows that there are more than 230 micro short drama-related companies in the country, of which more than 30 new registered companies were added from January to October 2023, an increase of 225% year-on-year compared with 2022.

The global Micro-Dramas Playback Platform market size was estimated at USD 8681.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 25.10% during the forecast period.
