Abstracts

A multifunctional tennis ball machine is a device designed to automatically serve tennis balls, which is equipped with advanced technology and multiple functions. It can simulate various serving styles and techniques of human players, and precisely control parameters such as the speed, angle, and rotation of the served balls. Usually, it works based on the principle of two counter - rotating wheels. The tennis ball is squeezed and ejected by the rotation of these two wheels, and different rotation speeds of the upper and lower wheels can create adjustable topspin or backspin. This type of machine offers multiple serving modes, including flat serves, slice serves, and topspin serves, etc. It also allows users to set different speeds and frequencies according to their needs. Some multifunctional tennis ball machines are equipped with intelligent control systems, which can be operated remotely through mobile apps or remotes, providing great convenience for users. They are suitable for tennis enthusiasts of all levels, from beginners to professional players, helping them improve their receiving and hitting skills, and enhance their physical fitness and reaction abilities.

The global Multifunctional Tennis Ball Machine market size was estimated at USD 212.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 3.90% during the forecast period.
