Report Overview

A one-component silicone sealant is a type of sealant that contains all the necessary components needed for curing and forming a solid polymer matrix. It consists of a mixture of silicone polymers, fillers, stabilizers, and other additives dissolved in a solvent carrier system. These materials work together to provide good adhesion, flexibility, elasticity, and durability when exposed to harsh conditions. Since it only requires one component, there is no need to mix different parts before application. Compared to two-component silicone sealants, one-component formulations offer simplicity in usage but usually require longer waiting times before subsequent coats can be added or before reapplying another layer of material once dried out.

The global One-component Silicone Sealant market size was estimated at USD 2853 million in 2023 and is projected to reach USD 4658.83 million by 2032, exhibiting a CAGR of 5.60% during the forecast period.

North America One-component Silicone Sealant market size was estimated at USD 816.49 million in 2023, at a CAGR of 4.80% during the forecast period of 2024 through 2032.
