A one-stop advertising platform is a comprehensive digital marketing service platform that integrates advertising planning, creative production, media resource integration, precise targeting, data monitoring, and performance evaluation. This platform integrates multi-channel media resources (such as search engines, social media, short video platforms, and feed ads), utilizing big data analytics and intelligent algorithms to automate ad delivery and real-time optimization. This helps advertisers efficiently allocate budgets across different channels, improve conversion rates, and increase brand exposure. The core value of a one-stop advertising platform lies in streamlining the entire advertising delivery chain, reducing enterprise advertising management costs, and achieving full-process visualization and intelligent management from placement to performance tracking. The upstream of the one-stop advertising platform's industry chain mainly includes advertising material producers, media and traffic platforms (such as search engines, social media, video and feed platforms), and advertising technology and data service providers (providing algorithm models, data monitoring, and programmatic delivery tools). The midstream consists of advertising platform operators, responsible for advertising resource integration, delivery management system development, algorithm optimization, and performance monitoring. The downstream comprises brand owners, advertising agencies, and SME clients who utilize the platform for multi-channel advertising and marketing decisions. The core value of this industry chain lies in its data integration and intelligent optimization capabilities, achieving precise targeting and improved ROI through AI and big data analytics. The industry's overall gross profit margin is relatively high, typically around 55%.
