Abstracts

Pantoprazole Injection is a proton pump inhibitor (PPI) administered intravenously, designed to suppress gastric acid secretion in patients who are unable to take oral medications. It is primarily used in clinical settings for the short-term treatment of gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD), erosive esophagitis, and pathological hypersecretory conditions such as Zollinger-Ellison syndrome. The injection form is critical in hospitalized or perioperative patients, offering rapid onset of action and reliable bioavailability, making it an essential therapeutic option for acid-related disorders where oral intake is not feasible or effective. The market for Pantoprazole Injection is characterized by its reliance on hospital formularies, generic competition, and demand driven by the growing incidence of gastrointestinal diseases and surgical procedures worldwide.

The global Pantoprazole Injection market size was estimated at USD 1680.5 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 3.75% during the forecast period.
