Abstracts

Pavement seal coatings are liquid-applied protective layers, primarily composed of refined coal tar, asphalt emulsion, or acrylic polymers, designed to shield asphalt surfaces from oxidative degradation, water infiltration, ultraviolet radiation, and chemical spills such as oil or gasoline. These coatings enhance durability and aesthetic appeal by providing a uniform, dark finish that restores the appearance of weathered pavement while filling minor cracks and preventing aggregate loss. The product is widely used on driveways, parking lots, playgrounds, and other asphalt-paved areas to extend service life, reduce long-term maintenance costs, and improve safety through increased traction and visibility of pavement markings.

The global Pavement Seal Coatings market size was estimated at USD 520.75 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.20% during the forecast period.
