Abstracts

Pet shipping services are comprehensive logistics services provided by professional organizations or transportation companies to safely and legally transport pets (such as cats, dogs, and birds) from one location to another. These services typically include health checks, quarantine certificate processing, preparation of dedicated air crates, shipping paperwork, airport pickup, air or land transportation, in-transit monitoring, and pickup at the destination, ensuring the health and safety of pets during transportation. These services are widely used in cross-city moving, travel, pet trading, and international relocation, offering comprehensive services that integrate animal welfare, logistics management, and administrative approvals. The pet shipping service industry is currently experiencing rapid growth, driven by the booming "pet economy" and the growing popularity of the "it economy" concept. Market demand continues to surge. Domestic aviation and railway systems are gradually expanding pet transportation pilot programs. By 2025, several lines, including the Beijing-Shanghai High-Speed Railway, will have launched pet-accompanying services, making "people and pets traveling together" a reality. The industry's supporting infrastructure is steadily improving. However, challenges remain, including inconsistent transportation standards, limited flight space, complex quarantine procedures, and inadequate safety oversight. Future development trends will focus on standardized, intelligent, and user-friendly services: first, establishing a nationwide unified pet transportation certification and regulatory system; second, developing customized, fully visualized high-end shipping services; third, promoting the coordinated development of intermodal transport by air, high-speed rail, and road; and fourth, leveraging IoT technology to enable real-time monitoring of temperature, humidity, location, and health status during travel, comprehensively enhancing the safety, convenience, and user experience of pets traveling.

The global Pet Shipping Service market size was estimated at USD 3022.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8.50% during the forecast period.
