Report Overview

The pet teeth care market encompasses products and services designed to maintain oral hygiene in pets, primarily dogs and cats, including toothbrushes, toothpastes, dental chews, water additives, oral sprays, professional dental cleanings, and veterinary dental treatments. This market has grown significantly due to rising pet ownership, increased awareness of pet health, and the link between oral hygiene and overall pet wellness. Key drivers include pet humanization trends, where owners prioritize preventive care akin to human healthcare, and veterinary recommendations emphasizing regular dental care to avoid diseases like periodontal issues. Innovations in product formulations such as enzyme-based toothpastes or edible dental treats and the expansion of e-commerce platforms have further fueled accessibility. Competition is intense among established pet care brands, veterinary product manufacturers, and niche startups, with premiumization and natural ingredient claims gaining traction. Challenges include low compliance rates for at-home brushing and price sensitivity among some pet owners, though the market is projected to grow steadily, supported by increasing disposable income and pet insurance adoption. Geographically, North America and Europe lead in demand, while Asia-Pacific shows high growth potential due to urbanization and rising pet expenditures.

The global Pet Teeth Care market size was estimated at USD 1001.6 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.25% during the forecast period.
