Abstracts

Phenoxybenzamine HCl API is a potent, irreversible, non-selective alpha-adrenergic receptor antagonist used primarily in the formulation of pharmaceutical drugs for the management of pheochromocytoma, a rare tumor of the adrenal gland, as well as other conditions involving excessive catecholamine release such as complex regional pain syndrome and off-label use in certain urological disorders. Its mechanism involves long-lasting blockade of alpha-1 and alpha-2 receptors, leading to vasodilation and reduced blood pressure, and it is characterized by its irreversible binding, which necessitates careful dosing and clinical monitoring. As an active pharmaceutical ingredient (API), it is synthesized under strict regulatory standards for purity, stability, and consistency, and is supplied to pharmaceutical manufacturers for use in finished dosage forms, predominantly in oral capsules.

The global Phenoxybenzamine Hcl Api market size was estimated at USD 35.5 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.25% during the forecast period.
