Report Overview

Play to Earn (P2E) NFT games are blockchain-based video games that allow players to earn cryptocurrency or non-fungible tokens (NFTs) through gameplay, which can then be traded, sold, or used within the game's ecosystem. These games leverage decentralized technology to enable true digital asset ownership, where in-game items, characters, or land are represented as NFTs on a blockchain, giving players verifiable ownership and the ability to monetize their time and skills. Unlike traditional gaming models where assets are controlled by developers, P2E games empower players by allowing them to generate real-world income through activities like completing quests, battling, trading, or staking in-game assets. The model has gained significant traction by merging gaming with decentralized finance (DeFi), attracting both gamers and investors seeking alternative revenue streams in the metaverse economy.
