Abstracts

The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Pop-up Tent competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. In 2024, global Pop-up Tent production reached approximately 479.3 K units, with an average global market price of around US$ 150 per unit. A pop-up tent is a portable, foldable tent characterized by its quick and easy setup. These tents typically feature spring-loaded poles or a retractable frame pre-attached to the tent body. When removed from its carrying bag, springs force the poles to extend, or the frame automatically deploys, allowing the tent to be quickly erected without complicated assembly. Tents are typically made of lightweight materials such as nylon and polyester, which are waterproof and sun-resistant. The frame is often made of fiberglass or steel, providing both flexibility and durability. With global warming and improved living standards, outdoor activities such as camping, picnics, and beachcombing are becoming increasingly popular. Camping culture is gaining momentum worldwide, driving demand for pop-up tents. The increasing frequency of outdoor commercial events such as trade shows, sporting events, and music festivals, which require temporary, easy-to-assemble shelters, is driving growth in the pop-up tent market. North America holds a significant share of the global market due to its prevalence of outdoor activities and a mature events industry. Europe also sees strong demand for pop-up tents due to its numerous cultural festivals and outdoor events. The Asia-Pacific region is expected to exhibit the highest compound annual growth rate, driven by rapid urbanization, rising disposable income, and a growing interest in outdoor leisure activities.

The global Pop-up Tent market size was estimated at USD 719.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.40% during the forecast period.
