Abstracts

Portland Pozzolana Cement (PPC) refers to a type of blended hydraulic cement manufactured by intergrinding or blending Portland cement clinker with pozzolanic materials?such as fly ash, calcined clay, or volcanic ash?along with gypsum, where the pozzolanic content typically ranges between 15% and 35% by mass. This cement leverages the pozzolanic reaction, wherein reactive silica and alumina in the pozzolana combine with free lime released during the hydration of ordinary Portland cement, resulting in enhanced long-term strength, improved durability, increased resistance to chemical attacks (particularly sulfate and chloride), lower heat of hydration, and reduced permeability, making it particularly suitable for mass concreting, marine structures, and infrastructure projects in aggressive environments.

The global Portland Pozzolana Cement market size was estimated at USD 54000.0 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.50% during the forecast period.
