Abstracts

Pay-per-click (PPC) advertising service is a digital marketing model in which advertisers pay a fee each time one of their ads is clicked, enabling them to buy visits to their websites or landing pages rather than attempting to earn those visits organically. This form of advertising is typically managed through specialized platforms such as Google Ads, Microsoft Advertising, and various social media networks, where ads are displayed to users based on targeted criteria like keywords, demographics, interests, or browsing behavior. PPC campaigns are structured around bidding systems where advertisers set maximum bids for specific keywords or audience segments, and the ad placement is often determined by a combination of bid amount and ad quality. The service includes strategic planning, keyword research, ad creation, bid management, performance tracking, and optimization to maximize return on investment (ROI) by driving relevant traffic, generating leads, or increasing sales while controlling advertising costs.

The global Ppc Advertising Service market size was estimated at USD 830.0 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 12.50% during the forecast period.
