Abstracts

PVC coated steel wire rope is a specialized composite product consisting of a high-strength steel wire rope core that is encased in a protective polyvinyl chloride (PVC) coating, which serves to enhance durability, corrosion resistance, and environmental protection while also providing color-coding options for safety and identification purposes. This combination of mechanical strength from the steel core and chemical resistance from the polymer sheath makes it suitable for applications where exposure to moisture, chemicals, abrasion, or UV radiation is a concern, such as in marine environments, construction, agriculture, fencing, and material handling systems.
