Abstracts

Qianlieshutong Capsules are a traditional Chinese medicine (TCM) formulation primarily used to treat benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH), a common urological condition in aging men characterized by urinary difficulties such as hesitancy, weak stream, and frequent urination. The product functions by promoting blood circulation, alleviating inflammation, reducing swelling, and improving urinary flow through a blend of herbal ingredients like safflower, angelica, and peach kernel, which are believed to address both symptoms and underlying causes according to TCM principles.
