Abstracts

The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Silver Plated Steel Wire competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. Silver-plated steel wire is a composite material made of steel wire as the base material and a silver layer deposited on its surface through electroplating or chemical plating. Silver-plated steel wire not only retains the strength and toughness of steel wire, but also gives it the electrical conductivity, thermal conductivity and corrosion resistance of silver, while using the lubricating properties of silver to reduce friction and wear in high temperature environments. This material combines the mechanical properties of the metal base material with the physical and chemical properties of the precious metal coating, and is widely used in precision scenes that require electrical conductivity, heat resistance, and oxidation resistance at the same time.

The global Silver Plated Steel Wire market size was estimated at USD 126.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.10% during the forecast period.
