Abstracts

The 2025 U.S. tariff policies introduce profound uncertainty into the global economic landscape. This report critically examines the implications of recent tariff adjustments and international strategic countermeasures on Single Seater Sofa competitive dynamics, regional economic interdependencies, and supply chain reconfigurations. In 2024, global production of single-seater sofas reached 14.46 million units, with an average price of approximately US$289.235 per unit. Recliners, priced at approximately US$477.62 per unit, had a gross profit margin of approximately 35%-40%, while beanbag chairs had an average price of approximately US$100.85 per unit and a gross profit margin of approximately 14%-21%. Beanbag chairs, recliners, and lounge chairs can all be collectively referred to as single-seater sofas, and they come in various sizes, styles, and functions. Recliners are a popular market segment, referring to new types of upholstered seats that add features such as posture adjustment, swivel, rocking, massage, and charging capabilities to the basic sofa design. Driven by both increasing consumer spending and growing demand for healthy home products, consumers are no longer limited to basic functions but are paying more attention to comfort and diverse features, indicating that the recliner industry is poised for rapid growth. Single-seater recliners are relatively small in size and come in various styles, making them ideal for single-seater suites or for use with two- or three-seater sofas, meeting the needs of contemporary young people. Raw material price fluctuations: Among the many raw materials, fabrics, steel, wood, and foam are in high demand. Steel (functional iron frames) has a high technical barrier to entry, and its raw material costs account for over 80% of the total cost. Therefore, fluctuations in raw material prices directly affect the procurement costs of functional sofa manufacturers, thus impacting their profitability. Large-scale functional sofa manufacturers focus on the mid-to-high-end market: The low entry barriers in China's functional sofa industry have led to numerous brands of varying quality. Small functional sofa manufacturers are mostly concentrated in the low-end market, resulting in severe product homogenization.

The global Single Seater Sofa market size was estimated at USD 4182.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.10% during the forecast period.
