Abstracts

The main raw material of soy protein hamburger meat is high-quality soybeans. Through a series of processes (such as heating, extrusion, spraying, etc.), soy protein powder is made into lean flakes of plant protein of different sizes and shapes. These plant proteins are similar to animal meat in terms of taste, structure, color, toughness, etc. Soy protein hamburger meat is rich in protein, and its protein content is much higher than that of general animal meat. At the same time, it also contains a small amount of fat, which makes soy protein meat a relatively healthy food choice. In addition, soy protein meat is also rich in a variety of minerals and nutrients, which helps to meet the nutritional needs of the human body.

The global Soy Protein Hamburger Meat market size was estimated at USD 530.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.90% during the forecast period.
