Abstracts

Sports collectible trading cards are standardized cards themed around athletes, stars, or related events, used for collection, display, and trading. They typically include player photos, basic information, professional data, limited edition numbers, and special materials (such as signatures and jersey patches). These cards possess cultural commemorative value, artistic attributes, and investment value, and are widely used in sports culture, the fan economy, and the collectibles market. The downstream industries for sports collectible trading cards mainly include sports merchandise consumption, the fan economy, collectible trading platforms, offline card stores, and auction houses. The downstream market revolves around the collection, display, grading, buying, selling, and value-added services of the cards, forming a complete ecosystem from card store sales, card grading agencies, online trading platforms to auction houses. Simultaneously, sports event operators, clubs, and brands also benefit through licensing partnerships, deeply linking sports cards with the sports and entertainment industry. The gross profit margin for sports collectible trading cards is approximately 49%.

The global Sportsman Collectible Trading Card market size was estimated at USD 2193.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 15.20% during the forecast period.

This report offers a comprehensive and in-depth analysis of the global Sportsman Collectible Trading Card market, covering all critical facets from a broad macroeconomic overview to detailed micro-level insights.
