Abstracts

Surgery center software refers to specialized digital platforms designed to manage the operational, clinical, and administrative workflows of ambulatory surgery centers (ASCs), offering features such as electronic health records (EHR), scheduling, billing, inventory control, regulatory compliance, and real-time analytics to enhance efficiency, patient care coordination, and financial performance. The market is growing steadily, driven by the increasing number of ASCs globally, regulatory mandates for digitization, and the demand for cost-effective healthcare solutions that reduce administrative burdens and improve outcomes. Key players offer cloud-based and on-premise solutions, with integration capabilities for other healthcare systems, while competition centers on usability, interoperability, and compliance with standards like HIPAA. Emerging trends include the adoption of AI for predictive analytics, telehealth integrations, and patient engagement tools, though challenges such as data security concerns, high implementation costs, and resistance to change among staff persist. North America dominates the market due to its well-established healthcare infrastructure and high ASC adoption rates, but regions like Asia-Pacific are experiencing rapid growth due to healthcare modernization and investments in outpatient care facilities.

The global Surgery Center Software market size was estimated at USD 523.7 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.80% during the forecast period.
