Abstracts

Tibetan singing bowls, traditionally crafted from a blend of metals such as copper, tin, zinc, iron, silver, and gold, are ancient Himalayan instruments used for meditation, sound healing, and spiritual practices; in the retail market, these bowls are sold both as functional musical instruments and as decorative or wellness items, with authentic hand-hammered bowls from Nepal and India representing the premium segment, while mass-produced or machine-made versions cater to budget-conscious consumers and broader decorative markets. The retail landscape includes specialty metaphysical stores, online marketplaces like Etsy and Amazon, wellness centers, and tourist-oriented shops, with demand driven by growing interest in mindfulness, alternative therapies, and cultural aesthetics, though the market faces challenges related to authenticity verification, ethical sourcing concerns, and competition from modern digital sound therapy alternatives.

The global Tibetan Singing Bowl Retail market size was estimated at USD 28.5 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.25% during the forecast period.
