A trigger mist sprayer for home cleaning is a manually operated dispensing device designed to deliver cleaning liquids in a fine mist or stream when the trigger is pressed. It typically consists of a plastic trigger, pump mechanism, dip tube, and nozzle, enabling controlled application of disinfectants, detergents, glass cleaners, and multipurpose solutions. These sprayers are lightweight, reusable, and cost-effective, making them essential packaging components for household cleaning products. Their design emphasizes durability, chemical resistance, and user ergonomics. Increasingly, eco-friendly models with all-plastic components or PCR (post-consumer recycled) plastics are being adopted for sustainable packaging in the cleaning sector. Upstream, raw materials include polypropylene (PP), polyethylene (PE), PET, and recycled plastics, alongside additives for chemical resistance and durability. Precision injection molding, assembly machinery, and tooling are critical in production. Key component suppliers provide nozzles, dip tubes, and seals. Downstream, household cleaning product manufacturers such as SC Johnson, Reckitt, Henkel, and Colgate-Palmolive integrate sprayers into consumer products. Distribution flows through supermarkets, retail chains, e-commerce platforms, and wholesale distributors. Recycling facilities and packaging recovery systems are increasingly relevant in the downstream chain to meet sustainability targets. Partnerships between cleaning brands and packaging firms are shaping market innovation and adoption strategies. 2024, global sales reached approximately 1.6 billion units, with an average global market price of around US$ 94 per k units.
