Abstracts

Venture capital investment refers to the provision of private equity financing by firms or funds to startups and early-stage companies that exhibit high growth potential, typically in exchange for an ownership stake and active involvement in strategic decision-making. This form of funding is distinct from traditional financing due to its focus on innovative, often technology-driven businesses that lack access to capital markets or conventional loans, with investors accepting higher risks in anticipation of substantial returns upon exit events such as acquisitions or initial public offerings (IPOs). The venture capital ecosystem includes not only the capital providers but also entrepreneurs, incubators, accelerators, and angel investors, operating within a framework that emphasizes scalability, market disruption, and long-term value creation rather than immediate profitability.

The global Venture Capital Investment market size was estimated at USD 353.5 million in 2024 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7.50% during the forecast period.

This report offers a comprehensive and in-depth analysis of the global Venture Capital Investment market, covering all critical facets from a broad macroeconomic overview to detailed micro-level insights.
