Abstracts

White Collar Defense Service is a professional legal service specifically provided to individuals and companies accused of non-violent crimes in the business and financial fields. Its core is to provide comprehensive and proactive legal protection for complex and highly specialized charges such as fraud, insider trading, corruption, money laundering and regulatory violations. The service covers the entire case process and is not limited to court defense. It focuses on early intervention, including assisting clients in responding to government investigations, conducting internal self-examinations, communicating and negotiating with regulators, and striving for non-prosecution, plea bargaining or the lightest sentence. This service relies heavily on the lawyers' in-depth expertise in specific industry regulations, criminal proceedings and investigation and evidence collection. It aims to protect the client's freedom, reputation, professional qualifications and property, and is an indispensable professional legal barrier when facing serious criminal and regulatory risks. The global White Collar Defense Service market is centered around the United States, closely followed by Europe, and experiencing rapidly growing demand in the Asia-Pacific region. The United States boasts the most sophisticated and stringent law enforcement system, and the transnational jurisdiction of agencies like the Department of Justice and the SEC has made American-style defense practices a global benchmark. Europe has developed a robust regional enforcement network in areas such as data privacy (GDPR), antitrust, and financial regulation, fostering complex cross-border defense needs. Furthermore, with China's economic expansion and tightening regulations, the Asia-Pacific region (particularly China and Singapore) has become the fastest-growing emerging market for this service. Countries are gradually strengthening their domestic anti-corruption and compliance legislation, driving the rapid development of regional White Collar Defense Services.

The global White Collar Defense Service market size was estimated at USD 151.0 million in 2025 and is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.20% during the forecast period.
