Report Overview

The Self Bag Drop (SBD) Service is an automated solution designed to streamline the airport baggage check-in process, allowing passengers to independently tag, weigh, and deposit their luggage without the need for staff assistance. These systems typically integrate with airline reservation platforms, using self-service kiosks and automated conveyor belts to verify baggage compliance with weight and size restrictions while generating boarding passes and baggage tags. SBD technology enhances operational efficiency for airports and airlines by reducing queue times, minimizing staffing costs, and improving the overall passenger experience. The system often incorporates advanced features such as biometric verification, RFID tracking, and real-time baggage status updates, making it a critical component of modern airport digital transformation strategies.
